RESSIA IN NEED OF HANGMEN .-The world generally believes that the fate of a Russian exile in Siberia is worse than death; but it is, not known to most people that capital punishment in Russia is extremely rare. In the majority of cases where a death sentence is pronounced the culprits receive a reprieve and are sent to the mines. A few months ago a band of thirteen bloodthirsty bandits in the district of Kuban were captured, tried and sentenced to be hanged. Five subsequently were respited and their sentences commuted to lifelong labor. Capital sentence on the remaining eight was executed last week in the little GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS town of Kuban. The gallows were erected on a small plateau in an elevat-ed position on the side of a hill facing the town.

The greatest difficulty was experienced by the authorities in finding an executioner. Official advertisements for a hangman, published at Batoun, Tiflis and Baku, brought no response. Ultimately an executioner was found in the person of a sturdy blacksmith. When he produced the head covers all the prisoners, with one exception, resisted, and more especially three powerful culprits.

The executioner only succeeded in reduing them to something like passive submission by the relentless application of a heavy-thonged whip. The scene with seven of the men was horrible Each one in turn resisted to the utmost of his menacled ability, at the same time screaming muffled curses.

"Trust Those Who Have Tried." Catarrh caused hoarseness and difficulty in speaking. I also to a great extent lost hearing. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm dropping of mucus has ceased, voice and hearing have greatly improved.—J. W. Davidson, Att'y at Law, Monmouth, Ill.
